FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

Makes Kidneys and Bladder Right

The Two Vanrevels

By BOOTH TARKINGTON,
Author of "The Gentleman From Indiana" and "Monsieur Beaucaire"

Copyright, 1902, by S. S. McClure Co.

Since the world began idle and industrious philosophers have speculated much upon the thoughts of men about to die, yet it cannot be too ingenious to believe that such thoughts vary as the men, their characters and conditions of life vary. Nevertheless, pursuant with the traditions of minstrelsy and romance, it is conceivable that young unmarried men called upon to face desperate situations might, at the crucial moment, rush to a common experience of summoning the vision, each of his heart's desire, and to meet, each his doom, with her name upon his lips.

An extraordinary thing occurred in the present instance, for, by means of some fragmentary remarks left at the time and afterward recalled, such as Tappingham Marsh's gasping, "At least it will be on her father's roof!"
and from other things later overheard, an inevitable deduction has been reached that four of the five gentlemen in the perilous case herein described were occupied with the vision of the same person, to wit, Miss Elizabeth Carewe, "the last, the prettiest, to come to town."

Craley Gray, alone, spoke not at all, but why did he strain and strain his eyes toward that empty pedestal with the grotesque carvings? Did he seek Fanchon there, or was Miss Carewe the last sweet apparition in the fancies of all five of the unhappy young men?
The coincidence of the actual appearance of the lady among them therefore seemed the more miraculous when worn and hopeless, staggering desperately backward to the gable ridge, they heard a clear contralto voice behind them:

"Hadden't you better all come down now?" it said. "The stairway will be on fire before long."

Only one thing could have been more shockingly unexpected to the five than that there should be a sixth person on the roof, and this was that the sixth person should be Miss Betty Carewe.

They turned, aghast, aghast, chop-fallen with astonishment, stunned and incredulous.

She stood just behind the gable ridge, smiling amiably, a most incongruous little pink fan in her hand, the smoke wreaths partly obscuring her and curling between the five and her white dress, like mists floating across the new moon.

Was it but a kindly phantasm of the brain? Was it the incarnation of the last vision of the lost volunteers? Was it a Valkyrie assuming that lovely likeness to perch upon this eerie, waiting to bear their heroic souls to Valhalla, or was it Miss Betty Carewe?

To the chief she spoke—all of them agreed to that afterward—but it was Craley who answered, while Tom could only stare and stand wagging his head at the lovely phantom like a mandarin on a shelf.

"My mother in heaven!" gasped Craley. "How did you come up here?"

"There's a trap in the roof on the other side of the ridge," she said, and she began to fan herself with the pink fan. "A stairway runs all the way down—old Nelson showed me through these buildings yesterday—and that side isn't on fire yet. I'm so sorry I didn't think of it until a moment ago, because you could have brought the water up that way. But don't you think you'd better come down now?"

think you'd better come down now?"

a smile of such appealing and tamitable sweetness that Voltaire would have trusted him, a smile altogether rose leaves. "Then I lose you," he said,
"for my only chance to know you was in keeping it hidden from you. And now you understand."

"No," she answered gravely, "I don't understand. That is what troubles me.
I did and believed you had the right to the difference I could believe it no sin that you should speak to me, should take me home now. I think it is wrong not to act from your own understanding of things."

The young man set his expression as one indomitably fixed upon the course of honor, cost what it might, and in the very action his lurking pleasure in doing it hopped out in the flicker of a twinkle in his eyes and as instantly could cover again—the flea in the rose bud.

"Then you must ask some other," he said firmly. "A disinterested person should tell you. The difference was political in the beginning, but became personal afterward, and it is now a quarrel which can never be patched up, though, for my part, I wish that it could be. I can't say you more, because a party to it should not speak."

She met his level look squarely at last, and no man ever had a more truthful pair of eyes than Craley Gray, for it was his great accomplishment that he could adjust his emotion, his reason and something that might be called his faith to fit any situation in any character.

"You may take me home," she answered. "I may be wrong and even foolish, but I do not feel it so now.
You did a very brave thing tonight to save him from loss, and I think that what you have said was just what you should have said."

So they went down the street, the hubbub and confusion of the fire growing more and more indistinct behind them. They walked slowly, and for a time neither spoke, yet the silence was of a kind which the plot rejoiced to have produced thus soon—their second meeting. He waited until they passed into the shadows of the deserted Carewe street before he spoke. There he stopped abruptly, at which she turned, astonished.

"Now that you have saved my life," he said in a low, tremulous tone, "what are you going to do with it?"

Her eyes opened almost as widely as they had at her first sight of him in her garden. There was a long pause before she replied, and when she did it was to his considerable surprise.

"I have never seen a play except the funny little ones we acted at the convent," she said. "But isn't that the way they speak on the stage?"

Craley realized that his judgment of the silence had been mistaken, and yet it was with a thrill of delight that he recognized her clear reading of him.
He had been too foolish again.

"Let us go," his voice was soft with restrained forgiveness. "You mocked me once before."

"Mocked you?" she repeated as they went on.

"Mocked me," he said firmly. "Mocked me for seeming theatrical, and yet you have learned that what I said was true, as you will again."

She mused upon that, then, as in whimsical indulgence to an importu-nate child:

"Well, tell me what you mean when you say I saved your life."

"You came alone," he began hastily,
"to stand upon that burning roof!"

"Whence all but him had fled!" Her laugh rang out, interrupting him.

"My room was on the fourth floor at St. Mary's, and I didn't mind climbing three flights this evening."

Craley's good nature was always perfect. "You mock me, and you mock me!" he cried, and made her laughter but part of a gay duet. "I know I have gone too fast, have said things I should have waited to say, but, ah, remember the small chance I have against the odds and there had been something in her tone, too, as very often there was, that showed how young she was. "Oh," she began again, turning to him impulsively, "I have thought about you since that evening in the garden, and I have wished I could know you. I can't be quite clear how it happened, but even those few minutes left a number of strong impressions about you. And the strongest was that you were one with whom I could talk of a great many things, if you would only be real with me. I believe, though I'm not sure why I do, that it is very difficult for you to be real. Perhaps because you are so different at different times that you aren't sure yourself which the real you is. But the person that you are beginning to be for my benefit must be the most trilling of all your selves, lighter and easier to put on than the little mask you carried the other night. If there were nothing better underneath the mask, I might play too."

"Did you learn this at the convent?"
gasped Craley.

"There was a world there in miniature," she answered, speaking very quickly. "I think all people are made of the same materials, only in such different proportions. I think a little world might hold as much as the largest, if you thought it all out hard enough, and your experience might be just as broad and deep in a small corner of the earth as anywhere else, but I don't know! I want to understand—I want to understand everything! I read books, and there are people, but no one who tells me what I want!"

"Oh!" Craley's lips began to form

"Stop!" He lifted his hand. A singular exaltation rose in him, together with the reckless impulse to speak from the mood her vehement confidence had inspired. He gave way to it.

"I know, I know," he said huskily.
"I understand all you mean, all you feel, all you wish. It is all echoing here and here and here!" He touched his breast, his eyes and his forehead with the fingers of his long and slender hand. "We sigh and strain our eyes and stretch out our arms in the dark, groping always for the strange blessing that is just beyond our grasp, seeking for the precious unknown that lies just over the horizon! It's what they meant by the pot of gold where the rainbow ends—only, it may be there, after all!"

They stopped unconsciously and remained standing at the lower end of the Carewe hedge. The western glow had faded, and she was gazing at him through the darkness, leaning forward, never dreaming that her tight grasp had broken the sticks of the little plink fan.

"Yes," she whispered eagerly. "You are right; you understand!"

He went on, the words coming faster and faster: "We are haunted, you and I, by the wish to know all things, and by the question that lies under every thought we have, the agonizing Whitter? Isn't it like that? It is really death that makes us think."

She shivered slightly, but her steadfast eyes did not shift from him. He threw back his head, and his face, uplifted to the jeweled sky of the moonless night, was beatific in its peacefulness as he continued in an altered tone, gentle and low:

"I think all questions are answered there. The stars tell it all. When you look at them you know. Do you see the constellations swinging above us, such unimaginable vastnesses, not roving or crashing through the flimsy matter at haphazard, but moving in more excellent measure, and to a finer rhythm than the most delicate clockwork man ever made? Ah, when you wonder look above you—look above you in the night, I say, he cried, his hand upraised like his transfixed face. "Look into your eyes and you will never fear that a sparrow's fall could go unmarked!"

It was not to the stars that she returned, but to the orator, as long as he held that pose, which lasted under the moonlight, and the hard ridged horse came galloping down the street. As it dashed by, though

Miss Betty blushed to see her name so blazoned forth in print, but she lacked one kind of vanity and failed to find good reason for more than a somewhat troubled laughter, the writer's purpose was so manifestly kind in spite of the bizarre result.

"Oh, I wish Mr. Cummings hadn't!" she exclaimed. "It would have been better not to speak of me at all, of course, but I can't see that there is anything to resent. It is so funny!"

Mr. Carewe repeated the conviction of a mission of mocking her, son, the time hideously contorted of her father during her childhood, as long as she could remember, no

As she retreated from him he leaned forward, thrusting the hideous mask closer to her white and horror-stricken face.

"You can't see anything to resent in that?" he gibbered. "It's so funny, is it? Funny! Funny! Funny! I'll show you whether it's funny or not! I'll show you!" His voice rose almost to a shriek. "You hang around here, do you, on the public streets at night?
You're a nice one for me to leave in charge of my house while I'm away, you trolop! What did you mean by going up on that roof? You knew that ragged Vanrevel was there! You did, didn't you, you know it?"

She ran toward the door with a frightened cry. But he got between it and her, menacing her with his upraised open hands, shaking them over her.

He did not speak again, but, taking a step backward, smiled faintly, bent his head in humble acquiescence and made a slight gesture of his hand for her to leave him. She waved him an uncertain farewell and ran into the garden, both palms against her burning cheeks.

CHAPTER VII.
MR. CAREWE was already at the breakfast table, but the light of his countenance, in den behind the Rouen Journal, was not vouchsafed to his daughter when she took her place opposite him, nor did he see fit to return her morning greeting, from which she generously concluded that the burning of the two warehouses had meant an ever loss to him.

"I am so sorry, father," she said gently. (She had not called him "father" since the morning after her fall.) "I hope it isn't to be a great trouble to you."
There was no response, and after waiting for some time, she spoke again rather tremulously, yet not timidly. "Father?"

He rose, and upon his brow was marked the blackest lines of anger he had ever seen, so that she leaned back from him, startled, but he threw down the open paper before her on the table and struck it with his clenched fist.

"Read that," he said, and he stood over her while she read.

There were some grandiloquent headlines: "Miss Elizabeth Carewe an Angel of Mercy," "The Living Belle Saves the Lives of Five Prominent Citizens!"
Her Presence at the Rouen Journal Conflagration From Wiping Out the City!"

It may be noted that Will Cummings, editor and proprietor of the Journal, had written these tributes as well as the whole account of the evening's transactions, and Miss Betty loomed as large in Will's narrative as in his good and lovelorn heart. There was very little concerning the fire in the Journal.
It was nearly all about Betty. That was one of the misfortunes which pursue a lady who allows an editor to fall in love with her.

However, there was a scant mention of the arrival of the volunteers "upon the scene," though none at all at the cause of their delay, and an eloquent paragraph was devoted to their handsome appearance, Mr. Cummings having been one of those who insisted that the new uniforms should be worn.

"Soon," said the Journal, "through the daring of the chief of the department and the captain of the hook and ladder company, one of whom placed and mounted the grappling ladder, over which he was immediately followed by the other carrying the box, a stream was sent to play upon the devouring element, a feat of derring-do personally witnessed by a majority of our readers.
Mr. Vanrevel and Mr. Gray were joined by Eugene Madrilion, Tapping-ham Marsh, and the editor of this paper, after which occurred the unfortunate accident to the long ladder, leaving the five named gentlemen in their terrible predicament, face to face with death in its most awful form. At this frightful moment—" And all the rest was about Miss Carewe.

As Will himself admitted, he had said himself out on that description.
One paragraph was composed of short sentences, each beginning with the word "alone." "Alone she entered the shattered door! Alone she set foot upon the first flight of stairs! Alone she ascended the second! Alone she mounted the third! Alone she lifted her head to the trap! Alone she opened it! She was declared to have made her appearance to the unfortunate prisoners on the roof, even as 'the palm laden dove' to the despairing Noah," and Will also asserted repeatedly that she was the "heroine of the hour."

Miss Betty blushed to see her name
so blazoned forth in print, but she
lacked one kind of vanity and failed to
find good reason for more than a somewhat troubled laughter, the writer's purpose was so manifestly kind in spite of the bizarre result.

Eastern Kentucky is much interested in developing her resources. To have them developed we must have railroads, and to get railroads we must give to them every encouragement we possibly can. Breathitt county has been recently surveyed by two companies with a view of building railroads; one of these expect to commence grading in a short time, but they are handicapped in securing the right-of-way. Now, we believe that the property owners should accept a fair compensation from the railroad men for the right-of-way through their property. We must have railroads and to get them it would pay the owners of the property to donate the right-of-way, if necessary, because Breathitt has come to her extent without railroads and must have them to progress. So we hope the holders of property on the surveys will take a sensible view of the matter. Don't ask fabulous prices for your property; help the railroads, don't hinder them, and with railroads and slack water navigation under the bill as shown on another column of The News, Breathitt county will loom to the front as one of the richest counties in the United States.

A bill was recently introduced into Congress providing that no Collector of Internal Revenue shall accept the special tax from any dealer in liquors where the business is prohibited by law. This brings to our minds the question of Federal licenses with regard to Breathitt county. It is a well known fact that licenses issued by the United States largely exceed that of the State itself, and, of course, Kentucky is no exception. Some residents of Breathitt county have had Federal licenses issued to them; now nothing could be clearer or plainer to our minds than the fact that the persons applying for Federal licenses for this county do so for the purpose of selling liquors illegally, and why they will sell liquors in violation of the State laws and not in violation of the Federal laws, we are unable to understand.

The Federal Government has no authority to license any business in any State, and the granting of a license to sell liquors by the Federal Government does not give a right against the State, to sell liquors. The Federal Government has the right to impose a tax on certain kinds of business, but the paying of the tax gives no right to do business within a State; it simply exempts the party from prosecution under the Internal Revenue Laws. People who engage in legal businesses never seem to fear the State laws, but will seldom engage in any business, particularly that of selling liquors without first complying with the Federal laws in that respect.

The selling of liquor in Breathitt county has been one of its drawbacks. The present administration seems determined to stamp it out, and the taking out of licenses from the Federal Government will not in any way help those who are running blind tigers; instead it will aid the county authorities in looking up the persons engaged in such traffic, because the name of every person who is the holder of a Federal license can be obtained from the records of the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Companion.

The fiction of the Woman's Home Companion for March contains a delightful Irish legend by Seamus Mac Manus, "Donal O'Donald's Standing Army," together with such modern tales as "Affairs of State," by Burton E. Stevenson, "Alcibiades," by E. Nesbit, "The Mount-ains of Peace," by Julia Truitt Bishop, "Mr. McCoggin—Country Tourist," by Laura L. Hinkley; and another of Elliott Fowler's "Barney and Noni" series. The magazine contains three timely articles on gardening, four fashion articles by Grace Margaret Gould; Anna Richardson writes of "Kinderartenen," and Meritt Fagner of "All Kinds of Breads and How to Make Them," and Helen Marvin of "Crocheting." Henry Harrison Lewis tells of Alice Roosevelt's courtship and marriage. Samuel Howe tells how to build "A Cement Rough-Cast House," and Martha Cobb Sanford how to celebrate "St. Patrick's Day in the Evening." Published by Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

or was brought before the bar in the criminal court in Iowa, but he was not represented by a lawyer. "Where is your lawyer?" inquired the judge who presided. "I have none," responded the prisoner. "Why haven't you?" "Haven't any money with which to pay a lawyer." "Do you want a lawyer?" asked the judge. "Yes, your honor."

"There is Walter L. Smith, John Brown, George Green," said the judge, pointing to a lot of young attorneys who were about the court waiting for something to turn up, "and Mr. Alexander is out in the corridor."

The prisoner eyed the budding attorneys in the courtroom and after a critical survey stroked his chin and said, "Waal, I guess I will take Mr. Alexander."—New York World.

For Upright Writing.

A league has been formed in Paris for upright writing. It takes as its motto a phrase from George Sand, "Upright writing on horizontal paper with the body held straight." The league crusades against the English and American style of writing, slanting and angular, which, it says, is no longer really taught in England and America. Slanting writing is said to cause short sight, "scholiosis" and many other optical troubles.

Wednesday was the beginning of the Lenten season.

Stop with Hart Bros., at Reed hotel when in Lexington.

W. K. Kilbourn, of Line Fork, was here several days this week.

Mrs. Anna Richmond, of Ewing, Va., is visiting the family of J. B. McLin.

Mrs. L. D. Fulkerson, of Ewing, Va., is visiting her son, R. J. Fulkerson, at Cannel City.

Winter came again Tuesday in real earnest and we were obliged to get out our furs and overcoats.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hall, on Feb. 28, a boy. This was on the second anniversary after the birth of their youngest girl.

Walker Cole's dwelling on Main street caught fire last Monday morning, but the fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

Hon. A. F. Byrd, of Winchester, was here during the week attending court. He was formerly Commonwealth's Attorney of this district.

B. M. Rennick, manager of the Paris Milling Co., of Paris, was here Tuesday, accompanied by W. L. Welch, his salesman, calling on our merchants.

James Miller, Sr., died last Saturday after a long illness. He was a soldier in the U. S. army in the war of '61 and belonged to the "Greasy 14th." He leaves a widow and several children.

Sunday service at the Baptist church at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Rev. W. H. Setzer, pastor. Morning subject, "A Love That Separates;" evening subject, "The Messianic Element of God's Kingdom."

Elizabeth Herald, who lives near Canoe, in this county, celebrated her 105th birthday a few days ago. She is able to go where she pleases and to do considerable housework and bids fair to see a few more anniversaries.

Charles B. Thompson is preparing to move to Somerset. He has been a citizen of this town for more than ten years and has been engaged in painting and paper hanging. His many friends here will regret to see him leave.

Miss Rose Marion, representing the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, was a visitor to THE NEWS office Wednesday. She was gathering important news on events now transpiring in Jackson, a write-up of which will appear in the Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

The Supreme Court at Washington did not hand down a decision Monday in the Caleb Powers case as was expected. This is taken as a favorable indication by the friends of Powers. It had been confidently expected that a decision would be announced Monday. It has so far been impossible to ascertain the cause of the delay, but it is contended that it can but affect Powers' interests favorably.

One of the most desperate moonshine battles fought in years took place on Carr's Fork in Knott county, just beyond the Letcher line, last week. Perry and Fal Sloan, brothers, alleged moonshiners, were killed, while Deputy Collector Malcomb Holliday, a fearless young officer of Perry county, was fatally wounded, being shot three times. The ball from a 45 Colt's pistol entered his left side and ranged upward. The other wounds were less serious, and his friends have hopes that he may recover.

The Sunday school at Quick-sand met Sunday, February 24th, with Hon. L. C. Roark and Miss Lillian Carpenter, teachers, both able teachers and fine lecturers. Forty-six were in attendance and good order prevailed. When law and order prevails society will build up. We hope that peace and happiness will reign in our community; when the boys will take their Bibles and Testaments in their pockets instead of pistols and whisky bottles and say, "we will go to church today."

Strychnine Found in Stomach.

Judge Taulbee has received the report of the analysis of the stomach of Flem Tharp, who died so mysteriously a few weeks ago, which showed that his death came from strychnine poisoning. It is not known whether it was taken by accident or design, but an investigation will be made into the matter.

A Success.

The play, "Mr. Bob," given by a company of home talent at the college chapel last Friday evening, was a decided success from every standpoint, and was by far the best effort in that line ever given in Jackson. The chapel was crowded and the audience was a most appreciative one, showering applause upon every member of the company at different times during the play.

No part of the cast was weak, every member fitting the part in a very becoming manner, and probably no more flattering compliment could be paid to the members than the numerous requests of our townspeople for a repetition of the play. The cast was as follows:

Philip Royson.....Mr. Kelly
Mr. Brown.....Mr. Pollard
Jenkins, a butler.....Mr. Vitz Aunt Becky, a maiden lady.....Miss Ryland Patty, her maid.....Miss Reese
Catherine, cousin of Philip.....Mrs. Gorton
Marion, called "Mr. Bob,".....Miss Denham

The play was preceded by a one act curtain raiser entitled, "An Interrupted Proposal." It is to be hoped the members of the cast will give us more of that kind of entertainment.

CIRCUIT COURT

James Hargis, Ed. Callahan, B. F. French, John Smith and John Abner, who were indicted last week for the murder of J. B. Marcum, appeared in court last Monday. The Commonwealth's Attorney, J. P. Adams, gave notice that he would move the court for a change of venue, and would have the written motions ready to file on Tuesday morning, until which time the court held the defendants pending such motion in bond of $10,000 each.

On Tuesday morning the defendants filed affidavits objecting to Judge Riddell presiding in the case. Judge Riddell then delivered the defendants into the custody of the jailer and retired from the bench and a copy of the orders in the cases were sent to the Governor requesting him to appoint a special judge to preside in the case.

J. L. Dorsey, of Henderson, was appointed special Judge to dispose of these cases, who arrived Thursday night and took them up Friday, when the Commonwealth's Attorney renewed the motion for a change of venue and the cases were passed until 1 o'clock. The defendants made a motion for bail, but the court refused to take that up until the motion for a change of venue was passed upon and the defendants were sent back to jail. The motions had not been passed on as we go to press.

Judge Dorsey has served two terms as judge of the circuit court in the Henderson district and is regarded as one of the ablest lawyers in Western Kentucky. It is to be hoped that he will dispose of these cases to the satisfaction of all parties concerned.

The grand jury was discharged Thursday morning, after returning 116 indictments for various offenses. This has been a working grand jury and one that has not been "bossed." They have done their duty as they saw it, have treated all alike and have not been dictated to by any one. If we had always had such grand juries lawlessness and bloodshed would have been comparatively unknown here.

Tom Cockrill, of Lexington, was in town this week.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank on February 25th, girl.

Hon. T. C. Johnson, of Tallega, is here attending court.

Capt. Wm. L. Hurst, of Camp-ton, is attending court here this week.

Judge H. G. Betts, of Owenton, has been appointed special judge of the Harrison circuit court to try Curtis Jett for the murder of James Cockrill.

A BILL

In the House of Representatives February 13, Mr. Edwards introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors and ordered to be printed:

Making an appropriation for the construction and completion of locks and dams Nos. 12 and 13 in the Kentucky river, and authorizing the Secretary of War to have a review or renewal made of the North Fork, Middle Fork, and South Fork of the Kentucky river.

Whereas the various reports of the Chief of Engineers show that the General Government adopted the project in 1879 to improve the Kentucky river in Kentucky and furnish six-foot slack water navigation by locks and dams from its mouth to the three forks, a distance of 261 miles; and

Whereas more than 26 years have elapsed, and by the end of the present fiscal year four and one-half million dollars will have been expended in the construction, repairing and maintenance of this project; and

Whereas 11 locks and dams will have been almost or quite completed, giving the proposed slack water for more than 200 miles and just in sight of the great coal fields of Jackson, Owsley and Lee counties; and

Whereas the completion of locks and dams Nos. 12 and 13 will furnish slack water for miles along the borders of these rich coal fields; and

Whereas the interest on the investment of four and a half million dollars already made at two per centum per annum amounts to ninety thousand dollars and the cost and maintenance of said improvements is ninety thousand dollars per annum, amounting to one hundred and eighty thousand dollars, almost enough in the aggregate to pay for the construction of one lock and dam each year; and

Whereas the report of said Engineers states that said improvement, so far as completed, is of no benefit to transportation, but rather a hindrance to the running of timber, and states, further, when said project is completed, as follows: "Dismissing from the discussion of this question its influence upon the welfare of the Commonwealth at large, as well as its relation to the commercial interest of the whole country, it is believed that there will still remain a degree of force in the argument that 4,000 square miles of coal and timber will thus be rescued from a state of uselessness and committed to the waiting hands of thousands who now endure the pangs of involuntary idleness;" and

Whereas our Government has expended millions in the improvement of the Ohio and its upper tributaries that the coal of Pennsylvania might be floated more than a thousand miles to the cities of the lower Ohio; and

Whereas the completion of the improvement of the main Kentucky river and its three forks, as recommended by the Government Engineers, would open up the very heart of the 16,000 square miles of Kentucky coal and same could be floated at a nominal cost and consumed by the great southern industries or used by the Government in the construction of the Panama Canal or go into the markets of the world: Therefore

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That five hundred thousand dollars be, and is hereby, appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to construct and complete locks and dams Nos. 12 and 13 on the Kentucky river in Kentucky in conformity to the survey and plans heretofore made by the War Department.

Sec. 2. That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause to be made a review or renewal, if necessary, of the survey made and reported by Mr. R. H. Fitzhugh on January 1st, 1879, of the North Fork of the Kentucky river up to the mouth of Leatherwood Creek, of the Middle Fork up to Hyden, and of South Fork up to Goose Creek Salt Works, near Manchester, and to cause an investigation to be made as to the present commercial resources and timber and coal of the country tributary thereto, and report the same to Congress as soon as practicable. The expense of such review or renewal and investigation to be paid out of the unexpended balance of the appropriation heretofore made for the improvement of the main Kentucky river.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BOONEVILLE.

People are planting out their spring gardens.

A good tide in the river and thousands of logs have been floated down to the markets.

Joe Brandenburg, son of Harden Brandenburg, who has been living in Ohio for some years, was called home by reason of the dangerous illness of his father.

Louis Brandenburg and a Mr. Black, of Madison county, left this neighborhood Sunday with a drove of 116 fine cattle for the Richmond market and six mules, for which they paid fine prices.

Old Aunt Martha Bell, 73 years old, wife of M. C. Bell, of Buck Creek, died Saturday night of pneumonia fever. Her husband died with the same disease about two years ago. She leaves a large family to mourn her loss.

Butler Peabworth, who was sent to the asylum about eight years ago and who soon thereafter made his escape therefrom, again became mentally unbalanced and is now crazy. He will have an investigation before Judge Brewer with a view of sending him to the asylum again.

Hiram Brandenbaugh, who was tried and convicted at the May 1905, term of our court and sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary for the murder of Henry Lynch, and who appealed same to the Court of Appeals, had said case affirmed last Friday and will now have to serve out the full sentence.

YALLER BRITCHES.

STACY.

Green Campbell went to Jackson Thursday.

William Campbell, of Lost Creek was on this side last week.

Jasper Stacy and wife were visiting at E. Campbell's Sunday.

Mrs. Tolbert Allen and son were visiting the family of Anderson Hays this week.

Hiram Napier and wife are visiting Mrs. Napier's parents, Louis Campbell and wife, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Roberts and Miss Hester Campbell partook of an excellent dinner, last Sunday, given by Mrs. Jim Campbell.

J. L. McCoy, A. S. Johnson, James Stidham and Sherman Cope passed through here one day last week looking for moonshiners.

CLAY HOLE.

J. M. Allen and G. M. Combs went to Jackson Monday on business.

Mr. Swango passed through this vicinity with a nice drove of cattle last Tuesday.

Uncle Ab. Russell and S. H. McIntosh had a fencing last Saturday. They made a long string of fence and a bountiful feast was served.

Judge Taulbee and Mr. Shepherd were in this part of the country buying logs. They are giving a nice price and people should patronize the Judge, as he is a worthy gentleman.

E. W. Combs is receiving letters from all parts of the country asking him for free transportation to the Indian Territory. He says he will be able to take as many as a dozen as soon as he can dispose of his property.

PRIMROSE.

Rev. R. T. Moore filled the stand at St. Helens last Sunday.

Simpson Lutes and son, Loyd, made a business trip to Jackson last Saturday.

Noah Lucas, who is in the employ of E. C. Hyden, near Elkatawa, came down on a visit last Saturday and returned Monday.

The test well being bored for oil on John Cockerham's farm will be brought in this week and the anxiety is getting great, as the well nears completion.

Your correspondent preached at White Pine last Sunday morning and at night. There was a good congregation of attentive people who seemed to enter into the spirit of the service uniting their voices together in songs of praise.

The plan of the Breathitt circuit of the M. E. Church is as follows: Beech Grove, second Sunday, at 10:30 a. m.; Turkey Creek, second Sunday, at 3 p. m.; Mill Branch, third Sunday, at 11 a. m.; White Pine, fourth Sunday, at 10:30 a. m.; Elkatawa, fourth Sunday, at night. Pastors are R. T. Moores and J. H. Hieronymus, who will preach alternately at each place.

COLLECTIONS A SPECIALTY

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Varieties of Fish That May Be Served to Invited.

Fish may be classified as "scaly" and "shellfish." The scaly, white fish having fat secreted in the liver, such as the halibut, turbot and flounder, are admissible for invalid cookery, with the exception of its codfish, which on account of its coarse fiber is never allowed. Oily fish, having fat deposited throughout the body, such as bluefish, eels, mackerel, salmon, etc., are too gross for an invalid to digest.

Shellfish of the mollusk variety, such as oysters and clams, may be variously used, oysters being the first rank. The five food principles are represented in the composition of oysters and in about the same proportion as in milk. But milk has the advantage over oysters as a food because it is much cheaper and may be taken in large quantities. Oysters are taken in such limited numbers they furnish a comparatively small amount of nutriment. They are, however, if eaten raw, very easily digested. They may be cooked in a great number of ways and offer an appetizing variety in diet on account of their delicious flavor.

Clears the Complexion.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and thoroughly cleanses the system and clears the complexion of pimples and blotches. It is the best laxative for women and children, as it is mild and pleasant, and does not grip or sicken. Orino is much superior to pills, aperient waters and ordinary cathartics as it does not irritate the stomach and bowels. Jackson Drug Co.

Household Leaks.

Dried fruits left unprotected to become wormy.

A big plate of flour used to roll fish or potato cakes in when a tablespoonful would suffice.

Good sheets used for the ironing table.

Flatirons wiped on the ironing sheet instead of a cloth or paper.

The chimney draft left open for heat to go up the chimney.

Napkins used for dish towels and dish cloths for holders.

The face of flatirons used to crack nuts on.

For an Impaired Appetite.

Loss of appetite always results from faulty digestion. All that is needed is a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will invigorate the stomach, strengthen the digestion and give you an appetite like a wolf. These tablets also act as a gentle laxative. For sale by Jackson Drug Company.

Kitchen Windows.

Good window screens are imperative in most American kitchens. No one need be reminded of the affliction of the flies for the kitchen and all that pertains to it, and while screens are not always effective, certainly do not keep out every fly, they are the best help we have and must not be overlooked. Doors also should be carefully screened and applied with a swing so they will close themselves if left open by a careless servant or indifferent grocer's boy.

One would think the laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for coughs and colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by the Jackson Drug Co.

Bellicose Brethren.

Miss Spoon—Do you suppose the military brushes ever went to war?
Mr. Pen—Well, I should suppose so. They tell enough stories of hairbreadth escapes and hairbreadth escapes.

Cures Blood Poison, Cancer, Ulcers.

If you have offensive pimples or eruptions, ulcers on any part of the body, itching bones or joints, fallow hair, mucous patches, swollen glands, skin itches and burns, sore lips and gums, eating, festering sores, sharp, gnawing pains, then you suffer from various blood poison or the beginnings of a deadly cancer. You may be permanently cured by taking Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.), made especially to cure the worst blood and skin diseases. Heals every sore or ulcer, even deadly cancer, stops all aches and pains and reduces all swellings. Botanic Blood Balm cures all malignant blood troubles, such as eczema, scabs and scales, pimples, running sores, carbuncles, scrofula. Druggists $1. To prove it cures, sample of Balm sent free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and free medical advice sent in sealed letter.

Do Not Be Imposed Upon.

Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. These worthless imitations have similar sounding names. Beware of them. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar is in a yellow package. Ask for it and refuse any substitute. It is the best remedy for coughs or colds. Jackson Drug Company.

His Record.

Miss Pen—You see, I'd want to get a line on the habits of the man who was going to rule my heart.

Mr. Spoon—Well, I'm proud to say I've always kept straight.—New York World.

Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for afflictions of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, of St. Clara, St. Clara, Mo. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated. It irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day kept right on talking through the campaign and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the council." This remedy is for sale by Jackson Drug Co.

Burning Garbage.

In burning garbage in the range it is a mistake to put it directly on the fire. Put it under the side or back lids, where the fire does not come in contact with it, and it will dry out. It is best to put the garbage in the stove at night, and by morning it is dried to a tinder and will blaze up and burn when the fire gets hotter, leaving no odor whatever. Never allow any scraps of food to be put in the scuttle.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment who this liniment can be obtained for small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by Jackson Drug Company.

Cream Sandwich.

Quarter of a pint of good cream, three teaspoonfuls of salmon or shrimp paste, half a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper, thin slices of brown bread. Whisk the cream until it is quite stiff. Stir the fish paste in lightly, add the parsley and season the whole well. Spread this mixture on the slices of unbattered bread, putting two slices together.

To Clean Shades.

Use a block of the best quality of magnesia and rub it long and well into each thread of the shades after having taken them down and laid them on a table. Treat both sides thus, roll up carefully and lay away for two days before brushing out the powder.

Dangers of Pneumonia.

A cold at this time if neglected is liable to cause pneumonia which is so often fatal, and even when the patient has recovered the lungs are weakened making them peculiarly susceptible to the development of consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar will stop the cough, heal and strengthen the lungs and prevent pneumonia. La grippe coughs yield quickly to the wonderful curative qualities of Foley's Honey and Tar. There is nothing else "just as good." Jackson Drug Co.

To Keep Lemons.

Lemons can be kept in good condition almost any length of time under glass that is light and airtight. Set one under a goblet and see.

Washing Chamois.

Wring chamois out of the soapy water without rinsing. When it dries it is soft and serviceable instead of stiff.

If you are troubled with piles and can't find a cure try Witch Hazel. But be sure you get that made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. It is the Original. If you have used Witch Hazel Salve without being relieved it is probable that you have got hold of one of the many worthless counterfeits that are sold on the reputation of the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by the Jackson Drug Co.

Apples in Maple Syrup.

Cut eight apples in halves and remove the cores, put in a saucepan with one cup of maple syrup, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one and one-half cups of water. Bake until the syrup is thick. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Removing Warts With Salt.

To remove a wart dampen it and rub with a piece of common salt. Do this three or four times a day for a month, and the wart will drop off, leaving no mark on the skin.

Mother's everywhere praise One Minute Cough Cure for the "miracles" it has relieved and the lives of their little ones it has saved. A certain cure for coughs, croup and whooping cough. Makes breathing easy, cuts out phlegm and draws out the inflammation. It should be kept on hand for immediate use. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.

Detecting Gas Leaks.

With a shaving brush or other small brush and an ordinary soap lather go over a suspected pipe. If there is a leak, no matter how tiny, it will blow bubbles in the lather. A leak too small to produce a flame will thus disclose its whereabouts.

The best safeguard against headache constipation and liver trouble is DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Keep a vial of these famous little pills in the house and take a dose at bed time when you feel that the stomach and bowels need cleansing. They don't gripe. Sold by the Jackson Drug Co.

The Lesser Evil.

"Are you afraid I'll break it, dad?"
"No. I'm afraid you won't."—Jester.

TO DELICATE WOMEN

You will never get well and strong, bright, happy, hearty and free from pain, until you build up your constitution with a nerve refreshing, blood-making tonic like

Wine of Cardui

It Makes Pale Cheeks Pink

WRITE US A LETTER
freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope), how to cure them. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"YOU ARE FRIENDS
of mine," writes Mrs. F. L. Jones, of Gallatin, Tenn.: "For since taking Cardui I have gained 35 lbs., and am in better health than for the past 9 years. I tell my husband that Cardui is worth its weight in gold to all suffering ladies."

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Some Bright Sayings by Twentieth Century Youngsters.

"Bobby," said the mother of a little upper west side boy, "I don't want you to play with that new little boy in the next house any more. He is not a nice little boy. He has bad teeth."
Bobby went out very soberly. Shortly after he was heard calling softly through the area railings: "Say, little boy, come over and play with me. I ain't got no bad teeth."

The Breath of Life.

It is a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. Right should be the breathing organs right should be the man's chief study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora A. Stephens, of Port Williams, O., has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery cured my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. It cured my throat and lung troubles." Guaranteed by the Jackson Drug Co. Price 50¢ and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

All Signs Fail.

Bacon—They say you can tell a cow's age by her tongue.
Egbert—Perhaps, but you can't tell a woman's age that way. Why, some of the young ones talk as much as the older ones.—Yonkers Statesman.

Starving to Death.

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful result that improvement began at once and a complete cure followed." Best health to date on earth. 50¢ Guaranteed by the Jackson Drug Co.

Gets Wise.

Bacon—When a man falls in love he always makes a fool of himself, don't you think?
Egbert—Oh, no; he doesn't always marry the girl.—Yonkers Statesman.

Indigestion is much of a habit.

Indigestion is much of a habit. Don't get the habit. Take a Little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure after eating and you will quit belching, eructing, palpitation and frowning. Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.

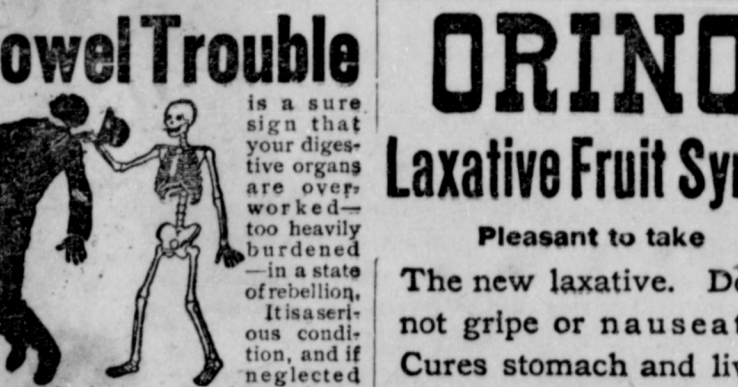

A Safe Cough Medicine for Children.

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by Jackson Drug Company.

One bottle of Smith's Kidney and Nerve Tonic cured Marion Hall of a weak back.

One bottle of Smith's Kidney and Nerve Tonic cured Marion Hall of a weak back. I was so bad that I couldn't get up when he sat down without being in continuous rack of misery for at least one hour. Sold by S. H. Siddham & Son, Jackson, Ky. Price $1.00 per bottle.

Bowel Trouble

is a sure sign that your digestive organs are overworked—too heavily burdened—in a state of rebellion. It is a serious condition, and if neglected will result in complications of the gravest character.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

It is the safest, quickest-acting and most effective remedy in the world for all bowel and stomach troubles—pleasant, powerful, and penetrating. It reaches the seat of the trouble and instantly corrects it. The confined gases are released, fermentation is stopped and the affected locality soothed and strengthened. DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN can be obtained in both dollar and half-dollar sizes at all druggists.
